

Lynn Archer

Real Estate Salesperson, Mary Collins Real Estate, Inc.

Lynn Archer is currently a licensed Real Estate Salesperson for Mary Collins Real Estate, Inc. having joined the team in 2015. With over twenty years of banking experience, including 8 years in JPMorgan Chase's Mortgage Bank, her extensive mortgage knowledge and overall banking experience has contributed to her success in the field. She was an elected Town Board member in the Town of Rochester for six years and an Ulster County Legislator for 6 years. In all her endeavors she brings a combination of people skills, entrepreneurial business experience and management expertise.

Lynn spent 20+ years in the financial services industry working for JPMorgan Chase in Human Resources with increasing levels of responsibility. As SVP of Human Resources, she worked with senior management teams developing long-term business strategies, analyzing complex people challenges and aligning organizations to meet new business directions. Throughout her career she worked in team environments, mediated conflicts, and is an effective communicator and a proven problem solver.

In 2005 she opened the doors to Archer Fine Art & Framing in High Falls and at the same time started her public service career. Lynn became a member of the Town's Democratic Committee, an active member of the Board of Assessment Review and accepted an interim appointment to the Town Board and followed up with two successful runs for the same seat. After 6 years of local government, Lynn moved on to county politics and was elected as Ulster County Legislator for District 21. Lynn received her license to sell real estate and with her local committee work continually looks for opportunities to create economic value within the communities she lives and works.

Lynn has sat on several boards as follows: the Rondout Valley Business Association, SUNY Ulster College Foundation, and currently sits on the board for the D&H Canal Society.
